ABOUT THE AUTHORS

DEANNA ARMBRUSTER is the Executive Director of the American Friends of Neve Shalom/Wahat al-Salam, a U.S. not-for-profit organization supporting the "Oasis of Peace" community in Israel, where Jewish and Palestinian families, all with Israeli citizenship, have chosen to live, work and educate their children together for more than twenty years.

She holds a Bachelor of Arts from Augustana College in Sioux Falls, SD, and a Master's Degree in Journalism from California State University, Northridge.

Deanna is a founding director of the Middle East Peace Network and co-initiated the Los Angeles Open Tent Forum and the American Alliance of Arabs and Jews, all of which are programs working to build genuine dialogue, respect, trust and a durable peace between Palestinians and Jews. She has been an invited speaker at the United Nations in New York and the United Nations in Geneva, Switzerland.

MICHAEL EMERY, a former United Press International reporter, earned his Ph.D. in Mass Communications at the University of Minnesota. A Professor of Journalism at California State University, Northridge, for twenty-six years, Michael was dedicated to serving his students, which earned him the "Outstanding Campus Advisor Award" in 1986.

However, it was his personal interest and pursuit in investigative reporting that led him worldwide on his quest for truth and accuracy. In 1992, Michael was honored for his work with the Mencken Award for Best Investigative Journalism Story. During the Gulf War, Michael was the only U.S. correspondent to interview Jordan's King Hussein.

He is author of On the Front Lines: Following America's Foreign Correspondents Across the Twentieth Century and co-author of the textbook, The Press and America. Michael passed away in December, 1995.
